CLASSICAL STUDIES

Degree: B.A., Classics

Department of Classics, Philosophy, and Religion (https://cas.umw.edu/clpr/)

Classics focuses on the study of the languages, literatures, and civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome. Since many of the ideas and principles which emerged in the classical world are basic to Western culture, courses in Classics apply to the study of almost all the liberal arts and sciences.

Students pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree in Classics may choose either an interdisciplinary concentration in Classical Studies or an interdisciplinary concentration in Classical Archaeology. The concentration in Classical Studies focuses on the Greek and Latin languages and literatures, the world of the Greeks and Romans, the classical tradition (the continued use or influence of classical thought and art), and classical reception (the interpretation of classical thought by later societies). Students develop their major programs in consultation with a faculty advisor.

While some Classics majors who choose a concentration in Classical Studies include teacher licensure in their schedule, others take a second major in a related field, such as history, philosophy, religious studies, English, business, computer science, art and art history, or modern languages. Graduates with degrees in Classics go on to have successful careers in law, government, non-profits, fine arts, museum work, education, archaeology, knowledge creation and curation (libraries, think-tanks, publishing and archives), business, financial services, and the computer/tech industry.

Opportunities for study and excavation abroad are readily available to the Classics major. Mary Washington is a member of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome, the American Academy in Rome, and the American School of Classical Studies in Athens. Students are welcome to consult with the Classics faculty about programs at these and other institutions. Qualified students are invited to join Eta Sigma Phi, the national honor society for Classics, and to try for departmental honors in their senior year.

Student Learning Outcomes

- 1. Students will demonstrate general knowledge of the outlines of Greek and Roman history, culture, and literature.
- 2. Students will engage with the culture, literature, research, methods, and scholarship of the discipline.
- 3. Students will develop competencies in reading Latin and ancient Greek.
- 4. Students will demonstrate effective oral and written communication skills.
- 5. Students will present, analyze, interpret, and synthesize evidence and scholarship on a topic relevant to classical or ancient Mediterranean civilization.
- 6. Students will create an original argument or creative work supported by individual research on a topic pertaining to classical or ancient Mediterranean civilization.

Plan of Study

This suggested plan of study should serve as a guide to assist students when planning their course selections. It is not a substitute for a student's Degree Evaluation or the Program Requirements listed for this major in the catalog. Academic planning is the student's responsibility, and course selections should be finalized only after speaking with an advisor. Students should familiarize themselves with the catalog in effect at the time they matriculated at the University of Mary Washington. Students should also familiarize themselves with general education requirements (https://catalog.umw.edu/undergraduate/general-education/) which can be fulfilled through general electives as well as major/minor course requirements. Course requirements and sequencing may vary with AP, IB, CLEP, Cambridge or previous coursework, transfer courses, or other conditions. To be considered full-time, an undergraduate student must be enrolled in 12 or more credits for the semester.
